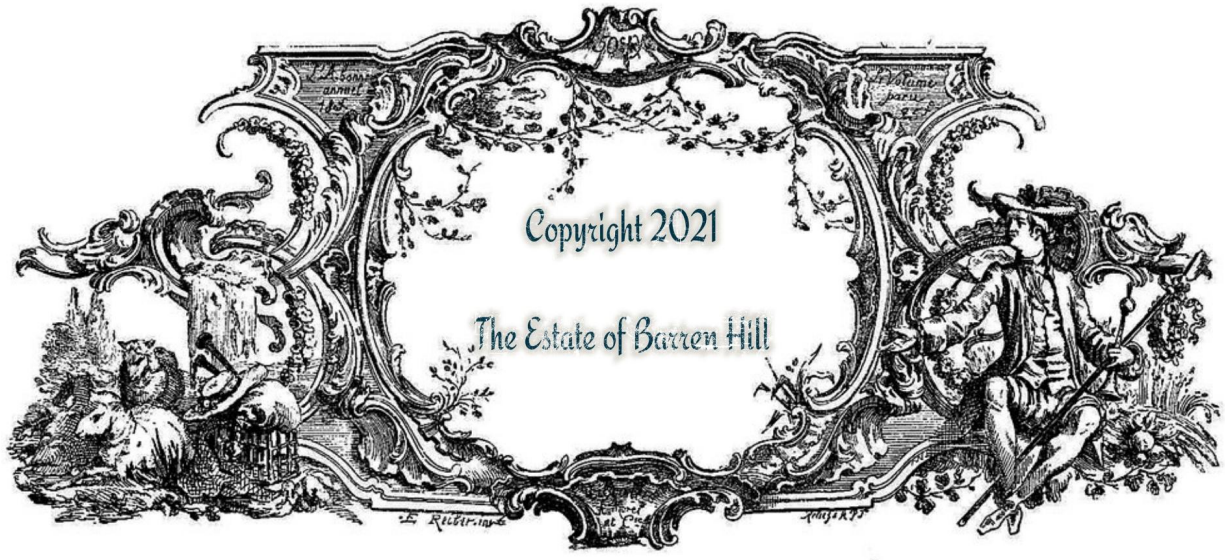
When morning light breaks the view
Beyond Eternity's Peak
When the road we walk ends at last
No more journey to seek,

Some wail, some woe, others grieve
They shed their tears like rain
Never to know an ounce of joy
But taste the loss of pain,

Thus begins a life alone beneath the shadowed sky
When lonely hearts cease to beat
We all are doomed to die...



Copyright 2021
The Estate of Barren Hill